The Bachelor of Biblical Literature

The Bachelor of Biblical Literature is a 36 credit hour undergraduate Bible program designed to prepare students to serve God in the faithful teaching and applying of Holy Scripture. Bible studies are directed by a traditional, Trinitarian, and historically orthodox Christian standard of interpretation. Requirements to enter the BBL: at least 90 semester credit hours earned from a recognized institution. At least 22 credit hours must be earned at St. Andrew's. Digital copies of many required textbooks are provided to the student at no additional charge.

Graduates of this program will be able to:

1. Display competence to teach and/or preach the word of God.
2. Demonstrate biblically-informed leadership skills for service in the church.
3. Evidence a biblical foundation for daily life.
